May 3, 2007, Eureka, MT – Membership has always had its privileges, but at Wilderness Club in NW Montana, membership benefits now include invaluable perks for the whole family. Building on a foundation of family, the new community has launched the exclusive Family Legacy Golf Membership, one of the most valuable amenities a recreational property developer could provide its homeowners.

“The Family Legacy Golf Membership represents the pinnacle of a homeowner’s achievements by extending Club privileges to six generations of their family,” said Barry Cole of Wilderness Development LLC, a subsidiary company of The Norcal Group. “Wilderness Club is all about family and the Family Legacy Golf Membership provides incredible equity and value. Generations to come will enjoy the full use of our beautiful course and amenities,” he said.

Homeowners at Wilderness Club are able to extend Golf and Club privileges to the following family members:

- Member’s Spouse
- Member and Spouse’s Parents and Grandparents
- Member’s children and their spouses
- Member’s grandchildren and great-grandchildren

“I’m confident the course we are creating at the Wilderness Club will be a spectacular addition to the development and a truly engaging test for golfers of all abilities. In addition to challenging the very best players with its strong emphasis on strategic decision making, we have also ensured this will be a golfing experience the whole family can enjoy together,” said Nick Faldo, winner of three British Opens and three Masters Titles.

Set within 545 rolling acres, the Wilderness Club approaches the Canadian border just a few minutes drive from Eureka and nearby Lake Koochanusa, providing easy access to year-round fun on the surrounding lakes, slopes and pristine wilderness of Montana and the Canadian Rockies. At build-out, the community will encompass 271 home sites; 47 luxury cabins; a championship golf course designed by Nick Faldo; clubhouse; village center with spa, fitness facilities; pools; and Camp Wilderness just for kids.
